Halloween treat

Don Anderson, co-owner of Pease's Candy, and his son, Doug, right, place trays of caramel apples on a tray to cool before wrapping at Pease's recently opened manufacturing plant in Industrial Park South off Toronto Road. The company, which has been operating in Springfield since 1930, built the new 8,000-square-foot manufacturing plant and warehouse this summer and moved candy-making operations from leased space on North Ninth Street. Caramel apples for Halloween are some of the first candies to be made at the new plant. Don Anderson, left, spins an apple in the warm, thick caramel.
